About Dippy on Tour: A Natural History Adventure

The Natural History Museum's famous Diplodocus skeleton cast 'Dippy' is coming to the Great North Museum: Hancock in May 2019.

Dippy lived in London for over 100 years but now he's on an adventure around the UK.

He was unveiled to the British public in 1905, after Edward VII requested a cast of the very first Diplodocus found in Wyoming, USA.

At 26 metres long and over 4 metres tall, this Diplodocus was described as the 'most colossal animal ever on Earth'.
