

Dippy's Explorer Trail - Beginner

Dippy is on a long journey around the UK. Now it's your turn! Trek through the Living Planet gallery and see if you can spot any animals similar to Dippy. Good Luck young explorer!

START

Dippy is a herbivore. This means he likes to eat leaves.

What other herbivores can you find?

I found:

1

Dippy has a really long neck to help him reach leaves.

Can you spot another animal that has a long neck?

I found:

3

FINISH

Dippy has a long tail to defend himself from predators.

What other animal uses their tail as defence?

I found:

5

Dippy was alive 154 million years ago! Dippy is now extinct.

Can you find another extinct animal?

I found:

2

Dippy has big strong legs to support his 17 tonne body!

Which other animal has big legs to support their weight?

I found:

4

Dippy's Explorer Trail - Advanced

Dippy is on a long journey around the UK. Now it's your turn! Trek through the Living Planet gallery and see if you can spot any animals similar to Dippy. Good Luck explorer!

START

Dippy is the longest dinosaur to have ever lived at 21.6m long!

Can you find the longest animal in the Living Planet gallery?

I found _____

1

Dippy's fossilised skeleton was found in North America.

Can you find another animal that lives in North America today?

I found _____

3

FINISH

Dippy became extinct 152 million years ago.

Can you find an example of a living dinosaur today?

I found _____

5

Dippy was alive during the Jurassic period 199 – 145 millions years ago!

Can you find an animal that was alive at the same time as dinosaurs?

I found _____

2

Dippy has a long tail to defend against predators.

Can you find another animal that uses its tail as a defence mechanism?

I found _____

4

